

LIMERICKS #7 - 9

by David L. Hatton

GLOBAL THAWING

When dinosaurs trembled at sneezing
they noticed their hind quarters freezing.
Ice banished that lot,
but as weather got hot,
we humans found such warming pleasing.

FLEA MARKET

A seller with merchandise regal
checks buyers with eyes of an eagle.
“How much for the lot?”
“How much money you got?”
“Enough, if your wares are all legal.”

LIMERICK CONTEST

The genius with which we are waxing must surely be mentally taxing.
I’ve already lost count,
but these lim’ricks still mount!
When this joust is done, I’m relaxing!
